Editor's Column

Three proposals for the development of Carmel have been presented to the city council. One is a commission to maintain and operate Sunset School, as is, also to plan future development of a municipal cultural and community center on the school site. The others are new facilities for the street and public works department and the police department. Incidental with these three proposals is relocation of the present city hall.

Already there is evidence of opposition to the proposed changes. Opponents are for preservation of the status quo of the facilities mentioned above, or very little change.

To these persons I should like to present the words of the late Perry Newberry who has become the idol of those seeking to preserve the "different" character of Carmel. The following paragraphs were taken from an editorial which Perry wrote for this paper in the summer of 1926.

"Nearly everybody that comes to Carmel wants the town to remain 'different' and hasn't the slightest conception of what its 'difference' is, how it became 'different' or how to retain its 'difference.' Some people think it has to do with holding back the town's population, being old-fashioned, keeping things primitive, getting along without the comforts and luxuries that modern life demands.

"NOT A BIT.

"The idea of holding back progress has nothing to do with the notion of keeping Carmel 'different,' for 'difference,' as far as its definition applies to our town, means originality.

"Community originality is what has made Carmel a different town from its neighbors, and is what you found here that decided you to make it your home."

Judging from these statements, were it possible for Perry to be with us today, I think he would toss back his mane of hair and let his voice boom forth in defence of the developments proposed to the council . . . as long as the community's originality is preserved, but not its outmoded, inefficient and ugly facilities.

Perry was not against progress but abhorred unoriginality. —M.L.

"OH NO, NOT RAIN AGAIN!" the boy above is protesting. So, too, may well have been the protests uttered by other young men who have created kites and are waiting to fly them in the twice postponed 35th annual Carmel Kite Festival. If it isn't raining and the ground has been given an opportunity to dry by Saturday afternoon, the kite festival will be held on the Carmel Junior High School playfield at 1:30 p.m. Girls as well as boys will compete in the event which will be sponsored by the Carmel Lions Club and the Carmel Unified School District.

Carmel 'Beer Ban' Unconstitutional Judge Jeffery Rules

Whether or not the city council will review the law it passed last year prohibiting the possession of alcoholic beverages on city property is a matter which City Attorney John Morse plans to discuss with council members.

Last week, in Monterey municipal court, the "beer ban" law was ruled unconstitutional by Judge James Jeffery. This ruling came as the result of the arrest of 12 persons the previous weekend for being in possession of alcoholic beverages on the beach.

Mr. Morse maintains the city's right to zone was the basis for the ordinance forbidding possession of alcoholic beverages on public lands. Under its zoning rights, the city may be able to amend the original "beer ban" ordinance and so control drinking on public property, he states.

Judge Jeffery threw out of court the city's case against the 12 persons who violated the Carmel "beer ban" law. By the California constitution, he ruled, only the state can regulate the possession of alcoholic beverages. Attorney Mark Starr represented the city in the case as the city attorney was out of town.

The arrests made the weekend before last were the first made under provisions of the "beer ban" law which was passed to prevent littering of the beach, a direct result of some large beer parties.

Developments In Fine Arts Gallery vs. Carmel Case

Attorneys representing the Fine Arts Gallery of Carmel, which also operates an auction-type business in Scottsdale, Arizona, have not, as yet, filed an answer to the city's cross complaint filed against them in federal court in San Francisco, City Attorney John Morse says.

Mr. Morse has just returned from Scottsdale where he went to be available for cross-examination during the taking of depositions by the gallery's local attorney, Donald H. Smith of Monterey.

These depositions dealt with the details of negotiations between the city and attorneys in Scottsdale who represented the gallery prior to its opening here last sum-

ARTS COMMISSION SPECIAL MEETING ON SUNSET REPORT

Mrs. Gunnar Norberg, chairman of the Carmel Arts Commission, has called a special meeting of this body for tomorrow at 5 p.m.

Purpose of the meeting is to discuss the final report of the Sunset Committee and prepare recommendations for the city council on proposals in the Sunset report which will be submitted to the city council on Wednesday.

The Rhyming Philosopher

By Harry W. Fletcher

No. 101

This morning call you "April Fool"
Because he tricked your trusting soul
So he could gain his clownish goal?

Take heart. This happens ev'ry day.
You hear the daily papers say
That once we're fooled we're twice times shy,
And history will tell you why.

Abe Lincoln said it more sublime:
You can't fool people all the time.
The biggest fool's the one fools you;
And he who fools is lying, too.

Today the world is in a mess
Because of planned deceptiveness.
They've fooled old trusting Uncle Sam,
And now themselves are in a jam.

Remember, who laughs last laughs best;
Who fools the host will fool the guest.
So, let them laugh at us who may,
Tomorrow is another day.

Norberg Opposes Acquisition Of More Sand Dunes

Councilman Gunnar Norberg was the only member of the city council, last evening, to oppose acquisition by the city of additional sand dune land north of the beach area now owned by Carmel.

He stated that the loss of 31,000 square feet of undeveloped sand dune was not "a great peril to the city" and opposed the report of the council adopted following a secret executive session.

This report stated that the city should immediately contact the prospective purchaser of the dune land in the Elizabeth McClung White estate, also indicate to the prospective buyer that the city has a strong interest in acquiring the undeveloped dunes portion of the land which will be submitted for sale in probate court tomorrow.

Mayor Herbert Blanks called a special meeting of the council at 5 p.m. yesterday to consider acquisition of a portion or all of the White estate property on the west side of San Antonio Street north of Ocean Avenue.

The attorney for the trustee of the estate, Annie Elizabeth White of Carmel, a niece of the late Elizabeth McClung White, during a conference prior to yesterday's council meeting, told Mayor Blanks and City Attorney John Morse that a possible sale of the entire White property for $225,000 might be approved by the court tomorrow.

LOCATION

The undeveloped 31,000 square feet of dunes lie west of the houses now on the White land and east of the bluff which borders the beach. On the north, this piece of property is bounded by a ravine and on the south by the dunes which the city already owns.

This piece of property was included in the list of desirable greenbelt acquisitions presented to the council by the planning commission in May of 1963. In October of last year, the commission informed the council that the White property was for sale. No council action on the matter was taken until yesterday afternoon.

At yesterday's special meeting, the Mayor informed other councilmen that $67,580 was the amount now in the green belt acquisition fund. He asked for a motion indicating that the council was interested in acquisition of part or all of the White property. Councilman Norberg voted against a motion to this effect proposed by Councilman Dallington and seconded by Councilman Stephen Grant.

NORBERG OPPOSES

Mr. Norberg stated he did not favor this motion because the White land was sixth on the priority list of greenbelt acquisitions presented to the council by the planning commission.

He added that it was not "serious or consequential" to add 31,000 square feet to the dune area already possessed by the city and that he would rather hold greenbelt acquisition monies the city now has for "major desecrations" that might be prevented in no other way than by purchase.

Loss of the dune property under discussion was "no peril to city-owned property," he emphasized. A possible peril might be an imminent sale of the Forest Lodge property on Ocean Avenue above Junipero, Mr. Norberg said. He

Planners Urge City Council To Adopt Area Plan

Following consideration of Planning Director Floyd Adams' five-page outline of the city council's March 3 public hearing on the Area Master Plan, the Carmel Planning Commission, last night, decided to urge the city council to adopt the area plan as soon as possible.

This recommendation is to be part of a report which will be sent to the council before its meeting on April 7.

The report will also state that the inclusion in the area plan of a tax district to acquire land for Monterey Pine Park is not of great importance as this taxing district could be set up and voted upon exclusive of the area plan and it is only one of six methods suggested in the area plan for acquiring conservation and recreation parks.

The need for immediate action, the report will state, is that the Monterey County Planning Commission and Board of Supervisors may be aware that Carmel supports the plan, and so may have a voice in any future area planning.

Imperative, too, is that the two county agencies may learn, through the adoption of the area plan by Carmel, the Carmel Planning Commission's recommendations to "freeze" certain lands adjacent to the city, also the attitude of Carmel to the area plan.

The report will also inform the council that the Carmel Planning Commission proposes to review the city's general plan for possible

Local Cartoonists Named For Awards

Local cartoonists Gus Arriola, Eldon Dedini and Frank O'Neal have been nominated for Cartoonist of the Year to be selected next month prior to the annual meeting of the National Cartoonists Society in New York. Three artists are nominated in each of several categories, the winner in each being named at the annual banquet. They then become eligible for Cartoonist of the Year, who receives the Reuben Award, named for the late Rube Goldberg.

Selected in the "best humor strip" category were Gus Arriola for his "Gordo," and Frank O'Neal for "Short Ribs." Eldon Dedini was nominated for the "best panel in magazines" category.

Gus Arriola and Eldon Dedini, with Dick Brickner and Coldy Whitman, are this year's judges for the Travel Poster Contest of the Visitors Convention Bureau.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

There are several new books in the McNaughton collection which are worth mentioning this week and since we seldom include them in this column, we are doing an about-face and concentrating on McNaughton today. You recall that these are the books which we shelve on a truck near the circulation desk, for want of a better place to put them. We do not own them. They are rented for us by the Monterey County Library and are for the use of both county and city borrowers. The books arrive here on the day of their release, ready for circulation, and this is exactly what we do with them. We put them into circulation immediately.

The first book is a sad one but an important one. It is THE ADDICT IN THE STREET by Jeremy Lerner. Here are the first person stories of the drug addicts on the streets of New York. These stories were collected on tape recordings by Ralph Tefferteller and made into a book by Jeremy Lerner. Each story is different and is told in the language of the addict himself. Poverty and ignorance are basic to all of them but the problem itself is basic all over the country.

The THOUSAND DOORS is a novel about Balkan intrigue written by Abraham Rothberg who has been a foreign correspondent and for this reason probably knows what he is talking about. This is his first published novel and it is not gentle.

CASTLE KEEP is by William Eastlake. The story is laid in France and is a war story the events of which happened during the second World War. This is a strange book. Reviewers say you will either like it immensely or give it up not liking it at all. If you dislike it, stop reading it. No law says that each book must be finished.

Travels in Greece are the subject of JOURNEY TO THE MOREA by Nikos Kazantzakis. However, these are travels through Greek history as well as travels through the countryside of Greece. The author is a Greek who lives in France and this was in the nature of a pilgrimage which he took to refresh his memories of his homeland.

A novel of espionage is by Adam Hall and is entitled THE QUILLER MEMORANDUM. It seems that this man Quiller was in Berlin and was approached by a stranger who told him of a plot to revive the power of Nazi Germany. As a secret agent for the British, Quiller was duty bound to investigate this intriguing mystery. So here we are, off again, and unable to put down the book until the final page.

THE COOK is a novel by Harry Kressing. Years ago novels of this kind were more common than they are now. It tells the story of a cook who rode a bicycle into the little town of Cobb. This little town was inhabited by two powerful families, the Hills and the Vales. Once they had been one family but generations ago the family had split into two rival factions. On the top of a high hill was the original home of the original family, uninhabited for many generations, and not to be lived in until the two families should once again be united. The story tells how the unknown cook was able to unite the two families and transform the lives of all their members. A strange man, this cook!

New books come dribbling in all the time from McNaughton. We are supposed to return them fast enough to keep our inventory at not more than 330, but we are often slow and today we have about 400 in the collection. Come one, come all!

'South Of Border' Cub Pack Meeting

Carmel Cub Scout Pack 3 had a "South of the Border" theme for their Friday night meeting in River School cafeteria.

Den I gave a fashion parade, wearing Mexican hats and weird papier mache masks which they had made.

Cubmaster Ray Benson welcomed Bill Godwin, Zachary Simpson, Chris Holl, David Holloway, Guy Allen, and Dennis Kantor into the Pack as new Bobcats.

Scott Keith received the Bear badge, a gold arrow, and a silver arrow. Bruce Brown received a Wolf gold arrow and William Moore a Wolf badge and a gold arrow.

Scott Keith and Kaese Pollard received one year pins and Ford Pollard a two year pin.

Following the meeting, cookies were served which had been made by the cub scouts.

Cub Scout Pack 3 which is sponsored by the Carmel Lions Club, will continue its activities through the summer.

Performances Of 'Camelot' This Weekend

"Camelot," the musical with lyrics by Alan Jay Lerner and music by Frederick Loewe, opened last Friday evening in King Hall at the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School and proved to be some of the finest entertainment ever offered by the school's little theatre group.

The cast, directed by Cole Weston, does a remarkable job with a very difficult vehicle for amateur or professional groups. Acting is superior. Singers and dancers are well trained. Sets for the ten different scenes are striking. Costuming is authentic and colorful. All this provides an enjoyable evening which is enhanced by the playing of the score by the 12th Naval District Band.

That "Camelot" presents a series of spectacles rather than cohesive development of plot detracts little from enjoyment of U.S. Naval Postgraduate School's Little Theatre production. Any fault in "Camelot" lies with playwright Moss Hart who picked a story that is hard to resolve.

"Camelot" will be repeated again tomorrow and Saturday nights at 8:30 p.m. M.L.

Two Series Of Story Hours At Carmel Library

The Harrison Memorial Library is happy to announce two series of story hours to be held during April and May. Both series will be scheduled for ten o'clock in the morning in the children's and young people's rooms at the library.

The first series of three story hours will come on Wednesday mornings and will be for preschool children. The dates are April 21 and 28 and May 5. For this series the children must be enrolled and it is suggested mothers come in to talk with the children's librarian, Mrs. Dorothy Colvin, before April 10. Mrs. Colvin believes that greater success will be achieved from these story hours by cooperation with the mothers. This is the first pre-school series to be held in the library for some time and we are eager to do all we can to make it a success and a pleasure for the children.

The second series is for school age children and will be held on Saturday mornings on May 15, 22 and 29. No registration is needed for these children. Here again the stories will be told by Mrs. Colvin who has had a great deal of experience in telling stories to children and enjoys this phase of her work.

Parents with children of the ages to enjoy either of these story hour series should make sure they have an opportunity to attend.

CHORAL CONCERT TOMORROW NIGHT

The Monterey Peninsula College Chorus and The College Singers, directed by Dr. Harvey Marshall, will present MPC's 15th annual spring concert tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. in the first Presbyterian Church, Monterey.

Highlight of the program will be the singing of "Magnificat," by Johann Pachelbel, with bass James Pittman, soprano Ann Johnson, contralto Elsie Turnier and mezzo-soprano Julia Gutekunst as soloists.

The 57-voice chorus will also perform "Awake the Trumpet's Lofty Sound," by Handel; "O Rex Gloriae," by Palestrina; and "Sing Ye in Joy," by Rachmaninov.

The College Singers, a smaller group, will sing "Mass for Mixed Chorus," by Igor Stravinsky.

The concert is open to the public without charge.

To the delight of many Carmelites who have known them both since their early childhood, Elizabeth Burdon Seccombe and the Reverend Samuel Earl Smith will be married at the altar of All Saints' Episcopal Church in Carmel this summer.

Announcement of Betsy and Sam's engagement was made this week by Betsy's parents, the Reverend Alfred Burdon Seccombe and Mrs. Seccombe in Walnut Creek where Mr. Seccombe is pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Betsy, whose father was pastor of All Saints' Church here during her early years, attended Sunset and River Schools. She went on to Solebury School at New Hope, Pennsylvania, and is now a student at the University of California in Berkeley. Her sister, Meg, was married in December to Benson Samuel Brown, professor of mathematics at Southern University in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, where they are living on campus. Betsy's two brothers are William Tyson and Alfred Fowler Seccombe, students at Del Valle High School in Walnut Creek.

Betsy's fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sterling Smith of Carmel. A Carmel High School graduate, Sam studied at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, U.C. at Berkeley and the General Theological Seminary, New York City. Following two years as curate in St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Walnut Creek, the Reverend Mr. Smith joined the staff of the York School for Boys where, since early 1964, he has been housemaster. He has two younger brothers, Donald and James.

Harrison, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Hilbert and brother of Clayton Hilbert, spent three years in the U.S. Army between graduation from high school and college. While on duty in Korea he was named "Soldier of the Month," and later served on a faculty committee at Fort Polk, Louisiana, where he attained the rank of sergeant before terminating his tour of duty.

Candidate Meets The People

Friends and supporters of Ralph Atkinson, candidate for the Monterey Peninsula Board of Trustees, have arranged social events recently in order that others may meet and talk with the candidate.

On Saint Patrick's Day, Mr. Atkinson spoke of his view on education at a morning coffee hour at the home of Mrs. Donald Criley. He emphasized his concern with the educational values the community provides for all students.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hopkins entertained at a buffet luncheon at their home on March 18 for Mr. Atkinson, and the following day he met with friends of Mrs. Stafford Hughes at her home on Jack's Peak. Mrs. Hughes was assisted by Mrs. August Armanasco and Mrs. Will Shaw.

Mr. Atkinson was an honor guest at a reception and cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. John Boit Morse last week at the Morse home in Pebble Beach.

Visitors Enjoy Exhibit

Several old friends of David Tyson arrived in Carmel last weekend to attend the reception given on Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. August Armanasco in honor of David's mother, Caroline (Mrs. James) Tyson and Fernand Fonssagrives, whose watercolors and sculpture, respectively, were on exhibit at the Armanasco home.

David's houseguests were Jeremy Woliver and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Friendly of San Francisco. Bailey Doris of Pacific Grove, another old friend of David, was also on hand to view the artist's works at the reception.

Another guest at the Tyson home this week was Mrs. Francois Leydet (Patience Abbey) of Belvedere, a frequent Carmel visitor.

David, who has become an expert ice skater, returns Sunday to New York to resume his studies at Columbia University.

Local Realtors Attend

According to W. Bion Burchell, president of the Carmel Board of Realtors, three local realtors have been appointed to statewide committees by David N. Robinson, California Real Estate Association president. The committees' year-round work covers a wide range of projects for the improvement of standards of the industry and protection of the public in the buying and selling of real estate.

Appointed were Robert E. Ross, vice-charman of the resort properties committee, also 10th district representative of the real estate investment trust committee; Malcolm E. Foster, 10th district representative of realtor-public relations committee; and C. W. Lunt, 10th district representative of the property management committee.

Granddaughter For Nietos

Jennifer Louise McCormack, just a week old today, is lucky to have her grandmother, Mrs. August Nieto, close enough to commute to Pacific Grove and help with her care. Jennifer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McCormack (Katherine Nieto) and the granddaughter, also, of William McCormack Sr. of Monterey. She has one sister, Elizabeth, aged four, an aunt, Margaret (Mrs. Michael) Philbin of San Jose, and two cousins.

Rhea Diveley Returns

Mrs. Rhea Diveley, who left Carmel in late October for a tour of the Far East, India and Persian Gulf ports, returned home last week (in body, that is, her spirit seems still to be wandering around the Orient, reluctant to settle down after her exciting trip).

She reports that she felt wonderfully relaxed and rested when the boat docked in Los Angeles where she was met by her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Diveley. The most exhausting part of her trip, she adds, was the energetic tour of Marineland, Knotts Berry Farm, nine hours at Disneyland and, en route to Carmel, a visit to Solvang and Madonna Inn in San Luis Obispo. This three-day bit of "trooping" in California was arranged by her brother.

Near the end of April, Mrs. Diveley will tell all about her experiences and describe the complete trip for the Carmel Woman's Club of which she is a former president.

'Who Gets The Drumstick?'

Two local residents are among 22 noted California women who will be panelists for a radio symposium sponsored by Foothill College in Los Altos. Purpose of the symposium is to explore specific areas of common significance to women. The discussions will be broadcast over the college FM station, KFJC, on consecutive Friday evenings from April 16-May 14 from 8 to 9 p.m.

Virginia (Mrs. Robert) Stanton, consultant on food and entertaining, cookbook author and party editor of House Beautiful magazine for 15 years, will take part in the April 23 discussion on "The Pursuit of Self."

On May 14, Helen (Mrs. Francis L.) Beardsley will be a panelist on "The Domestic Front." Mrs. Beardsley, mother of 20 ranging in ages from 20 years to 11 months, lightheartedly hints of one domestic problem in the title of her forthcoming book. To be brought out by Random House, it will be called "Who Gets the Drumstick?"

Community Hospital Auxiliary

Election of officers for 1965-66 and the presentation of 1,000-hour awards are on the agenda of the annual spring meeting of the Auxiliary of the Community Hospital on Monday at the Carmel Valley Country Club. A coffee hour, beginning at 9 a.m., will precede the meeting at 10 a.m. All active members are urged to attend.

The program, with reorientation as its theme, will include Mrs. Arthur T. Bridgett of the Palo Alto Medical Center Auxiliary on "The Volunteer in the Hospital." Dr. William B. Wenner, president-elect of the medical staff and chairman of the patient care committee of the Community Hospital, and Mr. Thomas E. Tonkin, administrator of the hospital, will discuss "Patient Care in the Community Hospital."

Mrs. Luke Shields, general corresponding chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Logan Claiborne, hospitality; Mrs. Charles Simpson, program; and Mrs. Ralph Castagna, decorations.

Art News . . . .

Kenneth S. Walker has accepted the chairmanship for the Beacon House Art Auction to be held May 16 in the Terrace Room of the Mark Thomas Inn. This auction has been held annually for the last six years as a benefit for Beacon House, Monterey Peninsula's rehabilitation center for alcoholics.

John Cunningham, president of the Carmel Art Association and director of the Carmel Art Institute, will serve as technical consultant for the auction. Other appointments are Mrs. Gordon Larson, secretary, Theil Hampton, financial chairman, Mrs. Fred May, posters, Ivar Sivertsen, distribution, and Mrs. Stephen A. James, publicity.

Attending the organizational meeting were Mrs. Richard Godfrey, Theil Hampton, Mrs. Thomson J. Hudson, Mrs. Stephen A. James, Mrs. Gordon Larson, Mrs. Fred May, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Patrick, Dr. Donald Taugher and Mr. Walker.

On exhibit at the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History are two sets of original watercolor illustrations of local wildflowers.

Set number one is the original series from the book "Point Lobos Wildflowers" by Roland Wilson, former supervisor of Point Lobos Reserve State Park. These were first done to aid the park's visitors in plant identification. Later they were made into a popular booklet printed by the State of California.

Set number two is an original series drawn for purposes of identification by Dr. F. W. Haasis, Carmel plant ecologist, who for a number of years was associated with the U. S. Forest Service. This set illustrates the plants in various stages of growth with flowering and fruiting parts drawn for comparative purposes.

The two series of over 150 paintings will remain on exhibit for the next two months. The museum is located at the corner of Forest and Central Avenues in Pacific Grove.

The dates of the museum's 4th Annual Wildflower Show have been set for April 16, 17 and 18.

Carmel artist Richard Lofton is progressing well following lung surgery last week at the Community Hospital, his wife, Nancy, reports.

John Boit Morse has been invited to be visiting lecturer in art at the Santa Fe, New Mexico, campus of St. John's College this Spring. Dr. Richard Weigle, president, of both the Santa Fe and Annapolis, Maryland, branches of the college made this announcement last week while on a visit here.

Edith Truesdell will show her paintings in the Carmel Valley Manor Gallery. The exhibition will open on April 10 at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The public is invited to see the paintings and to meet the artist.

Mrs. Truesdell, a resident of the Manor, studied at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, had one-man shows and taught in private schools in the Boston area.

After her marriage, she and her husband lived in Hollywood. His work as a specialist in water law for the Indian Service took them on trips all over the arid west. They camped near the site of his work and while Jack Truesdell looked into water problems, Edith painted.

Soon Boston and its conservative art techniques seemed far away. Her work began to change. Now she believes that "faithful representation in painting is a worn-out standard." Photography does a beautiful job of communicating reality, she thinks, but art should go beyond, the artist should contribute some element that is his own interpretation.

Edith Truesdell's work has won gold medals from the Laguna Beach Art Association and the California Art Club, also other awards from the California Water Color Society and the Los Angeles County Fair Show, and she was listed in Who's Who in Art.

Now she is using a new medium, Polymer. Many of the canvases her Manor Show will be in this medium.

The Aptos Art Center is presenting an exhibit of work by members of the Carmel Crafts Guild during this month. The gallery, located at 9047 Soquel Drive in Aptos, is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday. Doris Ormsby is chairman for the show, which will include sculpture, ceramics, jewelry, prints, handweaving and other crafts.

On Sunday afternoon there will be an invitational preview and reception, arranged by Eve (Mrs. Frank) Bell, at the Art Center.

Clara Martini, a charter member of the Carmel Crafts Guild who takes care of the display case at the Carmel library, is arranging a new display to acquaint the public with the functions of the guild. Currently on display there are sculpture portraits of little boys by Eve Bell.

Paintings by a local artist, Ben Bishop were on display in the foyer at Sunset Auditorium at the Monterey County Symphony's concert last week.

The pre-concert exhibition program was initiated by the symphony last season and has grown into a very successful series of one-man showings by local artists. Ben Bishop was born in New York City and studied there at the Art Students League, Columbia University and the Institute of Fine Arts. He also received training at the University of Nebraska and will obtain his M.A. in painting from the University of California this June.

His work has appeared in a variety of shows since the late 1940's in such cities as New York, Memphis, Los Angeles and San Francisco, as well as in a number of other communities across the nation. His paintings have been very well received locally at exhibitions in Monterey, Carmel and Carmel Valley.

Mr. Bishop has had a variety of experience as a teacher at such institutions as the Memphis Academy of Arts, Vassar College, University of Missouri and the Olympic Art Students Guild in Los Angeles. At present he teaches art courses at Santa Catalina School for Girls.

Winners of the March art show at the Carmel Craft studios were Andre Hope, first prize for a collage abstract, and Richard Crispo, second prize for a still life oil painting. Judges for the show were Betty Harrington, Jane Buffington and Richard Lofton.

The next art show at the Craft Studios will be held on April 15 from 3-4 p.m. It is open to all artists and work may be submitted in any medium.

Council To Receive Cultural Center Report Next Week

Last week, following adoption of a final report to the city council, members of the Sunset Committee voted to ask the council to dismiss them. Since July 1, this group appointed by Mayor Herbert Blanks, has been exploring ways and means to use Sunset School and campus for a municipal cultural and community center.

The final report, approved by the committee on March 25 and which will be presented to the city council on Wednesday night, recommends formation of a Sunset Commission composed of seven members, at least four of whom shall be electors of the city. This commission, the report indicates in its phraseology, will be subject to the council.

The duties and responsibilities of a Sunset Commission were outlined in the report which added that the commission should also have the authority to make decisions and perform such acts as might become necessary to perform its duties and responsibilities.

Recommended to the council as duties and responsibilities of the Sunset Commission in regard to existing school facilities were:

1. To negotiate and execute, on behalf of the city, rental or lease agreements.

2. To prepare annual maintenance and operation budgets and submit these budgets to the city council.

3. To incur indebtedness for maintenance and operation within limits of commission budgets authorized by the council.

Recommendations in the report in regard to the future development of the Sunset property as a municipal cultural and community center were that the Sunset Commission should have the duties and responsibilities as follows:

1. To contact and negotiate with appropriate persons and organizations for the ultimate development of the Sunset property.

2. Based on the information obtained from these contacts and negotiations, to submit to the council a final plan for the ultimate development of the property.

The city will take possession of Sunset school and campus on July 1 when the Carmel Unified School District abandons the premises. Since January 1, the school district has been paying to the city $2,000 a month rent for Sunset.

In April of 1964, voters approved a bond issue to purchase the school and campus for a municipal cultural and community center.

On Wednesday night, the council will receive the Sunset Committee's final report and decide whether or not to accept it in part or as a whole, or to consider the report at a later date.

The Sur Coast

By ELIZABETH FULLER JONES

NEPENTHE OPENS

Big Sur is "gently expanding" and Nepenthe, the restaurant and social center which opens another season today is "gently" and sometimes "boldly" expanding along with it. Part of this gentle expansion, described by owner Bill Fassett, is the installation of a new scientifically conceived and installed broiler for preparation of the meats served at the Sur Coast establishment. An alternate cooking system is another added feature which is expected to contribute measurably to the convenience and comfort of patrons, as well as staff, during those periods of electrical power failure which occasionally occur in the rugged coastal country.

Throughout the years that Mr. and Mrs. William Fassett (Bill and Lolly as they are best known to their friends) have operated the dining place in its spectacular setting, the opening has been preceded by relatively quiet months during which renovating, repainting, resurfacing and rewaxing of the dance and entertainment area, also general preparation of the spacious structure and grounds has taken place. All of this has been accomplished for Nepenthe's opening today, with its regular schedule of luncheon and dinner service. Plans, too, have been made to resume the Friday evening and weekend series of concerts, poetry readings and dance programs which will be announced in this column within the near future. Instead of the quiet months referred to in this winter season just ending, the owners and members of their regular staff (the staff during the spring, summer and fall season numbers over 30 individuals) were occupied with other business ventures surrounding Nepenthe.

Last Fall, the Phoenix Shop, filled with an unusual collection or items, including the work of the creative people of Big Sur, unique pieces from Hong Kong, Peru, the Isle of Crete and other remote and romantic places around the world, opened in a handsome, new structure situated on a level just below the broad terrace of the restaurant. Like the original Nepenthe, built 15 years ago, the Phoenix shop was much larger than originally visualized. During the long months of construction, the building caused much comment and upon its opening the curious, tourists, residents and countless patrons of Nepenthe came to see what was housed within. "The building," said Bill Fassett, "was formed to meet the feeling of the mountains and the sea—it might be called a tapestry of Big Sur," for woven into it was the work and thought of many artists and artisans of the community.

Many patrons of the Phoenix Shop were disappointed to find the restaurant, Nepenthe, closed during the winter, and it was then that the resourceful and imaginative Lolly and Bill Fassett conceived the idea of The Galley. The Galley was opened on the first level of the Phoenix Shop for serving sandwiches and coffee at midday. When it was known that this service was available, the demand for the "light luncheon" grew greater than was originally anticipated until luncheons served were averaging 600 a week. Upon opening of Nepenthe today, the Galley is closed.

Since its inception in 1949, Nepenthe (which is taken from the Greek meaning something like "island of no sorrow") has "gently" grown to be one of the showplaces of the country. "We believe," says Bill Fassett, "that Nepenthe has a great appeal in its setting, in its meeting of the needs of the people," and he adds that "we wish it to continue to be a place where people of all ages can come to enjoy the dramatic beauty that envelopes it."

Nepenthe, Big Sur, is open every day from April 1 to December 31 from noon until midnight. During weekends and the coming summer months, reservations are advisable.

Mark Twain will be the speaker at the Carmel Woman's Club on Monday. Or so it would appear. In reality, the above photograph is of George-William Smith, an entirely credible replica of the famous humorist in his white suit, white wig and cigar-stained moustache. Mr. Smith achieves, in his role as Twain, a fine balance between pathos and hilarity as he present excerpts from the author's writings ("On Taking the Pledge," "My Boyhood Home," "When Susy Was Seven," and others).

Mr. Smith's rich background in the theatre includes 175 roles as a professional actor on the stage. He is emeritus professor of speech, radio and television at McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago.

The program, beginning at 2 p.m., was arranged by Mrs. Rhea Diveley.

Before its departure for Santa Barbara, the above redwood beam, carved by Carmel woodcarver Howell Armor (right), was on exhibition in the Monterey Peninsula College student union. Its eventual home is a dormitory complex adjacent to the University of California at Santa Barbara. Armor's son, Campbell Armor, is a member of the firm which built the dormitory, which houses several ex-MPC students and graduates. At left is August Armanasco, MPC language instructor, who was consulted by Armor in the selection of an appropriate quotation for the beam. Translation of the Cervantes line from "Don Quixote": "There's no sauce in the world like hunger."

Letters To The Editor . . .

Editor,
Carmel Pine Cone

I have read your article about the Hatton house and the Hatton family. I thought the contents of this letter might be of interest to you.

I knew all of the Hatton boys and some of their wives. Ed Hatton ran the Los Laureles for the Pacific Improvement Company for some time and it was at the headquarters there that Monterey Jack cheese was first produced commercially. Ed Hatton was in charge of the operation. We sold it under the name of Del Monte cheese. The ranch at that time was operated as a dairy.

Before I took charge of the company operations in 1915 they had stopped the operation and gave it as a concession to Ed Hatton who moved down to the old Hatton dairy at the mouth of the Carmel Valley, and there he continued to produce Del Monte cheese.

When the Del Monte company, due to the war, stopped producing cheese and selling it, a group of people started to produce it under the name of Monterey Jack. I have written before how this cheese originated and why it was called Jack cheese due to the fact that it was compressed by the original producer with an old house jack.

The producers could not use the name Del Monte cheese because we owned the name. Now, of course, it is produced widely.

It's a shame that the old Hatton house is gone. It was a landmark for a long time.

Very sincerely,
S.F.B. Morse
Chairman of the Board
Del Monte Properties Company

Editor,
Carmel Pine Cone

On March 22, I opposed the repeal of the Carmel Knolls leash law before the board of supervisors in Salinas.

The law was repealed despite my plea for a continuance, as the other leash law proponents had not been notified and many were shocked how easily an existing law can be wiped out.

I had a difficult time speaking with the constant interruptions of Chairman Tom Hudson who undoubtedly is anti-leash.

During my talk, he allowed bedlam to exist—not only allowing the Carmel Knolls children to run and scream, but also encouraging it by stopping me in the middle of my speech to tell a thoughtful woman who was carrying her uncontrollable child outside to please remain as he "liked to hear the children," insinuating he preferred it to the speech.

Another time, he interrupted to say that someone in the audience wanted to make a comment. The interruptions plus the children's whimpering and romping made it difficult.

A chairman is there to maintain order and see that justice is done —not to harass the speaker. I have never heard such commotion allowed in any court room or before any other law making body. I, as well as the head of the opposition, couldn't hear the decision.

It was amazing that this can happen in the U.S.A.—but it did, in Salinas.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

How the power of God operates in human affairs is explored in this week's Bible Lesson to be read at all Christian Science churches. The Golden Text is from Luke (18:27): "The things which are impossible with men are possible with God."

Several dramatic examples will be read from the Bible, illustrating the availability of divine power in overcoming the discordant conditions of material existence. The subject is "Unreality." Citations from the Christian Science textbook will include these lines: "From beginning to end, the Scriptures are full of accounts of the triumph of Spirit, Mind, over matter . . . When man is governed by God, the ever-present Mind who understands all things, man knows that with God all things are possible" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, pp. 139, 180).

Carmelights by Piñon

At the planning commission meeting last week, Hildreth Hare was discussing some of her property. When asked how old a certain building was, she couldn't remember. "But maybe Marjory Lloyd can," she said.

This moved another reporter at the press table to ask, "Marjory, is it true you know every termite in town by its first name?"

We are happy to see that blackberry vines still grow in the alleyway back of the Standard station garage. Jane Vial remembers picking and eating the berries off these vines when she was a very little girl. Nowadays, so Bud Clark says, the berries are harvested each year by Curt Landon of The Paint Pot who makes them into jam. Soon the new Wells Fargo bank will be on the other side of the alleyway. Those blackberry vines have seen a lot of change in Carmel. They go back to the days when the old Manzanita Theatre occupied the site of the new bank.

Win Snyder's father, John M. Lindley of Wellesley, Massachusetts, maintains it takes an outsider to really appreciate the little things of life in Carmel. He's been coming here for 14 winters and each year sees something the rest of us overlook.

This year Mr. Lindley noted improvements at the post office. The fact that lettering in the BOX RENT DUE sign is in pastel shades instead of traumatic red or black is a "gentle and thoughtful gesture," he declares.

Mr. Lindley also remarked on another post office improvement. He reports that the slot which used in years past to be marked ORDINARY is now labeled CARMEL. It seems that back in the ORDINARY years Mr. Lindley was confused about which slot to use. "I never wrote an ordinary letter in my life," he says, "Every letter I write is a miracle."

Dr. Leonard Woolley has about two calls a week because of some kid's taking a swig of Purex, Antrol, or the like. During Poison Prevention Week he had five calls in one day!

Have you seen the two roosters and four hens out back at Carmel High? And did you think our school system had to go into the egg business to make expenses? Not quite! Well, not yet, anyway! The flock provides the star performers of a biology experiment being conducted by Evelyn Sharp and her students in their study of animals' habits and characteristics. They take the eggs, examine the embryos as they develop and when the chicks are born, they imprint them.

That's right, imprint. They lay an idea on them. Give the little chicks a "thing" to hold onto. Seems chickens will follow the first object they see, they immediately identify with these objects and actually think they themselves are whatever the objects are. They like clocks, wooden figures, and one poor pullet was utterly inconsolable until somebody imprinted her with a mirror. Now she's ecstatic, skipping and twittering with her friend all the livelong day.

Miss Sharp told us about one rooster they used to have who was really imprinted. Robespierre his name was and he thought he was a person. He followed anybody anywhere. Last summer he helped her clean the lab. She'd open a cabinet and Robespierre would hop right in and eat up all the spiders for her. But old Robey wasn't awfully bright. He thought dogs were people, too, and off he went one day with a great big collie. You know, that collie didn't have any scientific curiosity at all! Only biological characteristic he was interested in was his eating.

Incidentally, about that egg business—Miss Sharp says there is no shortage of customers for the unfertilized ones. Carmel High's possums just love them.

Sunday Picnic

Sunday's sunshine found a sizeable area of Stewart Beach occupied by Mrs. Barbara Dickson's picnic guests, ranging from the teen-age and college set to "mother's friends." Mrs. Dickson's son, Robert, a student at the Orme School in Arizona, was home on vacation and invited a number of boys from Robert Louis Stevenson School, which he formerly attended. Roger, her other son, was also here with friends from the University of California at Berkeley.

Planning Commissioner Home

Mrs. Florence Josselyn returned from a three-week vacation in the Hawaian Islands in time to resume her duties at the last meeting of the Carmel Planning Commission. At the time the previous meeting convened, Mrs. Josselyn was flying over a very live volcano, which she says can only be described as Dante's "Inferno." The close-up view of the erupting volcano was seen on a flying tour of the Islands.

Mrs. Josselyn reports that the weather was fine while she was there and that her trip was all the more enjoyable because of the presence of Lance and Adele Detroit, who joined her on many occasions.

Gateway Center Appointments

Thomas C. D'Angelo, D.D.S., of South Carmel Hills has been elected chairman of the board of trustees appointed to administer Gateway Center on behalf of the Monterey Peninsula Council for Retarded Children. Among other members appointed are Dr. F. C. Burleson and Mrs. Donald Morton of Carmel; Major John Wecker of Mission Fields; and Lloyd Swanson of Carmel Valley.

In assuming the chairmanship, Dr. D'Angelo stated that Gateway Center should be a multi-purpose center where many services should be available to the retarded.

Mary Martin Engaged

Mary Elisabeth Martin and Robert Mar McGregor will be married in early summer at All Saints' Episcopal Church following her graduation from Stanford in June. Mary announced her engagement on Monday at a candle-passing ceremony in Florence Moore Hall at Stanford.

Mary, who graduated from Carmel High School in 1961, is the daughter of Mrs. Eileen Martin of Carmel and Oliver Martin of Ketchum, Idaho. Her sister, Jane, is a sophomore at Stanford and her brother, John, is a student at Wood River High School in Hailey, Idaho. She is the granddaughter of the late Edward C. Aldwell of Pacific Grove and the niece of Alan Aldwell of the Carmel High School faculty.

Her fiance is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Mar McGregor of San Francisco and the brother of Mona and Bruce McGregor of San Francisco. He plans to continue his studies at Stanford, where he is a member of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity, toward a doctorate in philosophy.

Pam Clancy Weds Tony Hobson

Their families were delighted, but not particularly surprised, to learn on Saturday that Pamela Drake Clancy and Anthony Clemet Hobson had chosen a simple marriage ceremony in Las Vegas rather than a formal wedding at a later date. Mr. and Mrs. Riley Wilson of Pebble Beach accompanied the young couple to Las Vegas, where the bride was given in marriage by her uncle, actor Richard Sargent (Richard Cox).

On Friday of next week, the bride's parents will give a reception at the Beach Club in honor of the newlyweds. Tony's Marine Corps status permitting, the young couple will then leave for a honeymoon in Puerto Vallarta, Mexico. Later they hopefully plan to attend Cornell University together for a course in hotel management.

Pam, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Clancy, graduated from Santa Catalina School for Girls and is now a freshman at the University of Arizona, where she is pledged to Alpha Phi sorority. She is the sister of Cathy Clancy, a senior at Santa Catalina, and of John Clancy, who attends Robert Louis Stevenson School. Her grandparents, the late Colonel and Mrs. Elmer M. Cox, were residents of Carmel for many years.

Tony is the son of Mrs. Lucille Wagner Hobson, a former resident of Atherton, who now makes her home in Carmel Valley. He is a sophomore at Monterey Peninsula College and a reserve in the U.S. Marine Corps.

Crileys Off To Mazatlan

Tonight the Don Crileys of Carmel Meadows will be breathing the warm air of Mazatlan, where they will spend two weeks loafing and enjoying the tropical beaches of the area. With them are their children, Ted, Don and Megan. Don's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Criley of Claremont, will join them on the flight from Los Angeles.

LITTLE LEAGUE TRYOUTS

The third and final tryouts for the Carmel Little League will be held on Saturday at the Carmel High School baseball field starting at 1 p.m.

Morses Back

City Attorney John Morse and Mrs. Morse are home after a trip to Scottsdale, Arizona, a visit in Tucson with Dr. and Mrs. Ed Tucker, former Carmelites, and a rendezvous in La Paz, Bolivia, with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Porter. By plane, the Morses and Porters explored the Lower California peninsula to its tip and then flew home.

Houses Opened For Benefit

The seventh annual Carmel Champagne House Tour on May 18, sponsored by Fir Branch of Children's Hospital of the East Bay, will find the doors open to seven interesting houses selected by Mrs. Robert Stanton.

Houses to be included in the tour are the Stantons', with its new additions, in Carmel Valley; two studio houses designed by Mark Mills and featured in the June, 1964 House Beautiful, one of which the designer built for Louisa Jenkins; the hilltop home of Mr. and Mrs. John Monroe; the loggia, oriental gardens, pool and pool house designed by artist Millard Sheets for the home of Mrs. F. G. Cruickshank; and the new house of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Haber which borders on the golf course of the new Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club.

Jon Akselsen Promoted

Jon I. Akselsen received recognition recently as an outstanding trainee through early promotion to Army pay grade private E-2 following completion of basic combat training at Fort Polk, Louisiana.

Jon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivar Akselsen, graduated from Robert Louis Stevenson School in 1960 and attended San Jose State before entering the Army in 1964.

Friends Improve Simmons Tour

Because they have many friends living throughout Mexico, California Highway Patrol Captain Francis Simmons and Mrs. Simmons never feel like typical tourists when they travel in that country. They returned recently from Mexico, where they flew first to Guadalajara and, after a few days, on to Mexico City. Following a stay in the capital, friends in Cuernavaca picked them up to drive to that city for a visit. They later drove to Taxco and on to Acapulco to see other friends before flying home.

A NEW LISTING IN CARMEL HIGHLANDS

Today is ad day, and I am here,outside this unusual house, looking at a sea incredibly blue, having just counted eight different kinds of wild flowers at my feet, noted that the raccoons and little foxes finished their dinner left for them last night on the front patio, running my hand over the soft patina of this very, very old front door on this very, very newest of houses—and wondered what to write in the Carmel Pine Cone that would express my pleasure in presenting this interesting home for your consideration.

It's hexagon shape, with roof of 3" cedar, each piece individually cut. It is five minutes south of Carmel and has sweeping ocean views from its mostly glass walls. There are 3 rock fireplaces containing 22 tons of native granite, and one of them is in each of the two interesting bedroom suites. A gourmet's kitchen, stainless equipment, and a nice, earthy tile. Skylights, carpets, drapes, perimeter heat. Very unusual lighting including floodlights all around outside. Detached carport perfect for a studio or guest house conversion. And your neighbor—a forest that is yours forever.

But these facts do not do it justice. The house itself is an experience. Spring is a new beginning; begin your life in this incomparable area with this treasure of a house. The price is only $65,000.

indicated that if the city spent money to acquire the dune land and, in the future, the Forest Lodge property became available, money would have been spent on a purchase not so urgent as acquisition of land in the center of town.

WHITTLESEY APPROVES

Councilman Eben Whittlesey agreed with Mr. Norberg that the Forest Lodge property was more significant as greenbelt acquisition than the dune land because of the "visual impact" of the lodge land on the city. However, he pointed out that loss of the White dune land would most likely "inject another potential development of houses" on the dunes. Any more houses on the dunes, Whittlesey thought, would have "substantial impact" on "the view looking up the beach to Pebble Beach, the sweep of the bay, the golf course and the wooded hills beyond."

Mr. Norberg countered with the observation that any development of the White land would "not be onerous to most of the people viewing" the beach.

"The peril here is not a great peril," he reiterated.

At this point, Councilman Grant observed that Mr. Norberg constantly sought to preserve Carmel as a "quaint and charming city." Mr. Whittlesey had been describing such an aspect of the city, "but Mr. Norberg doesn't agree."

"We may hold back until nothing is left for greenbelt," the Mayor interposed.

"Once we lose this particular oportunity the land will be built on as fast as anyone can do," Mr. Whittlesey stated and added that anyone spending as much money as the prospective purchaser of the White land would most likely undertake rapid development.

Councilman James Buffington gave as his opinion that the White dunes were in an area of the beach that is not much used by the public and doubted that houses on the land would be much seen. He was not convinced that the city should purchase land "just to look at" at the price quoted to the council.

"I am interested in buying the whole property," Mr. Grant announced and asked for an executive session to discuss the White land.

Shortly after 7 p.m., the council ended the secret session.

HEIRS OF ESTATE

Present at yesterday's meeting was William Pentony, broker for the White land. Heirs to a life trust in the White estate are Annie Elizabeth White of Carmel, Dwight Wales who lives in the State of Washington and Fay Wood of Georgia. After this trust expires, heir to the estate is the University of Virginia. Malcolm Millard is the attorney for Mr. Wales and Mrs. Wood. Ralph Thompson represents the university and the firm of Hudson, Martin, Ferrante and Street represents Miss White.

Mayor Blanks and the city attorney, two weeks ago, had a conference with the attorneys for the heirs to the White trust and made various suggestions about the city's interest in acquiring the unimproved portion of the White land. No definite conclusion or agreement was reached as to any sum that seemed acceptable to the trustee. The city's interest was communicated to the prospective purchaser but the purchaser wished to go ahead with a $225,000 bid for the entire property.

"Our ultimate card is condemnation of the portion we are really interested in. This however, has no bearing on the sale," Mr. Whittlesey remarked yesterday afternoon. Mayor Blanks stated that in the past the city had been opposed to condemnation, "a procedure rather repugnant to this council, too."

CONTEST WINNER

Mrs. Lloyd Hansen of Watsonville was winner of the drawing held by the Brass Lantern Restaurant and will, with three friends, be guests of the management at the San Juan Bautista restaurant tomorrow. Over 100 entries were received from this area alone in response to the display advertisement announcing the drawing last week which ran in this paper.

Vic Reisig at the Brass Lantern reports that distinctive atmosphere, decor and gourmet menu selections were the most common objectives of the survey respondents. The turnaway crowds (without reservations) the last two weeks would indicate these features can be found and are being enjoyed daily except Tuesday in San Juan.

Medill Bair Kiwanis Speaker

Members of the Carmel Kiwanis Club learned last Thursday of the responsibilities of educators and adminisrators from Medill Bair, Superintendent of the Carmel Unified School District, who was the guest speaker at the club's weekly luncheon meeting.

Mr. Bair touched on such subjects as the search for qualified teachers; the necessity of teachers being well grounded not only in subject matter, but in modern methods of instruction and flexible in their attitudes about the age at which a child is ready to learn. Personnel turnover, tenure, salary schedules, and compliance with State law in hiring teachers and administrators are a few of the problems facing the director of a school system. In addition, as Mr. Bair pointed out, he has the responsibility of investing millions of dollars in the educational establishment in the process of providing excellence in education.

Planners Urge Council To Adopt Area Plan

modification in relation to the area plan.

On January 20, the Carmel commission recommended that the council adopt the area plan with modifications which they still desire.

These were:

(1) That the type of planning for the Odello brothers' property and the Stuyvesant Fish Ranch be revised to more nearly accomplish the purpose of retaining scenic and open space qualities, preservation of prominent topographical features, and protection of approved developments from hazardous conditions such as flooding by the Carmel River.

(2) That such a planning concept, when well developed, be made applicable to all large land holdings which have similar characteristics and problems as the two properties referred to above.

The commission also asked the council to recommend to the area planners that the latter body take steps to implement many objectives of the area plan, especially in respect to large landowners, including both the Odello brothers and Mr. Fish.

These were:

(1) That types of regulations be instituted immediately to maintain the status quo until equitable zoning regulations can be developed.

(2) That public bodies explore all avenues to seek state legislation to permit assessment to be adjusted for land kept in a greenbelt condition.

Council Agenda

The city council, on Wednesday evening, will consider 88 tree trimming and cutting requests submitted by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company. The trees to be trimmed are situated all through the city and involve from one to ten trees at various locations.

The council will be asked by the planning commission to take immediate action on the area plan; receive the report of the Sunset Committee, also a report of the arts commission on the Sunset Committee report and a report from Councilman Gunnar Norberg on a cultural and community center.

The council convenes at 8 p.m. in city hall.

Fine Arts Gallery vs. Carmel Case

mer.

The city maintains the gallery opened in violation of a zoning ordinance prohibiting auction businesses in Carmel. The gallery is contesting this alleged violation in federal court. The city has answered the action and filed a cross complaint in the same court asking for an enjoinder against the gallery operating in Carmel. The gallery's attorneys have not, as yet, filed an answer to this cross complaint, according to Mr. Morse.

'CRASH CREWS' SOLICIT FOR RED CROSS

With $12,000 yet to be raised in order to reach the 1965 fund campaign goal of $29,122, Carmel Red Cross volunteers have formed "Crash Crews" of four to work together in small areas missed by door to door solicitors in the residential area. The station wagon, with a driver, transports the workers to the sections for which no workers have been found, for quick calls upon each resident.

"Despite the hard work of our volunteers," the fund chairman, Ted Fehring, states, "some people will not be contacted by a worker. These people we urge to mail their contributions to the chapter office."
